

It has been enriching and enjoyable to take some of our youth and college students to visit different houses of faith in Louisville. I was excited when a few of them told me that they had always wanted to visit religious services for other faiths and that they had not yet had the chance. I believe that learning about world religions and visiting our neighbors of other faiths both helps us be a good neighbor and helps us to better articulate what we believe. We can be good neighbors when we have a baseline of knowledge about what our neighbors believe and can speak respectfully to them around holy days and customs. It is also helpful to be knowledgeable and have examples when someone might say that all faiths are the same. It is lovely to be able to identify commonalities, but also important to know and recognize differences.

So far, we have been to a prayer service at Louisville Islamic Center of Compassion and a Shabbat service at The Temple. We have been welcomed warmly in both places and had great discussions following our visits about similarities and differences.

At the Islamic Center of Compassion, we heard the Imam speak to his congregation about how they are called to turn toward Allah in challenging times and how to include more moments of thanks and prayer in their day. The youth and college students were especially interested in the very plush carpet we were sitting on.

At The Temple, one of the rabbis (who is also half of a clergy couple at the temple, something cool we have in common) gave us a tour and took out a Torah scroll for us to see. He told us that young people are always nervous about taking out the Torah for their Bar/ Bat Mitzvahs as tradition says if you drop a Torah scroll everyone must fast for 40 days. We talked to Rabbi Simone, who had face-timed with our group previously, and she reassured us that the 40 day fast is split among all people present, though she cannot think of a time it has actually happened. That would have been quite the challenge as only 6 of us were present at that time.

Our youth and college students will next be visiting the Hindu Temple of Kentucky and the Drepung Gomang Center for Engaging Compassion. These visits have been a great time of conversation and learning from our neighbors and how we can be better neighbors.

CHURCH EXTERIOR PROJECTS

The office entrance railings have been upgraded to meet current codes and painted to match existing railings. A gate was added at the top of the stairs to the basement for added security.

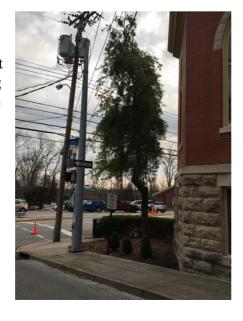

Security cameras have been added to monitor church and youth building entrances, as well as the parking lot.

Overgrown shrubs in the front and rear of the church building have been removed. New shrubs have been added.

New benches for the side of the youth building were donated by Dickie and Pam Phillips.

The newly finished stone walls in our parking lot have been designed, built and donated by Doug Butler. Future planned additions to the stone walls includes a city bench and a historical marker installed by the city and historical commission; a paved walk through at the end of the stone wall near the Justice Center; protective barrier inside the walls on the parking lot side.

Assistance Program

By Amanda Shirley

The month of May was another record month for food assistance. In May 118 bags of food were given to people in our community, feeding 230 individuals. As costs of everything continue to increase our numbers will as well. Centenary received donations for ground beef from Farmers Feeding Families, Hens helping Humans donated fresh eggs, and Dare to Care donated 1,438lbs of food estimated value of $2,142.62. Some food and household items were also purchased, using the grant money we received last year, totaling $351.66. The service we provide to our community is invaluable to those that receive the assistance.

Financial assistance continues to be a need in our community as well. Centenary received 17 applications for assistance in May. Centenary was able to offer assistance for 16 of those requests with a total cost of $2,127.20 impacting 33 individuals. As requests for financial assistance continue to come in sometimes the maximum amount, we can assist with needs to be adjusted. Lately we have had to adjust those levels to help as many people as possible. Centenary offers rent or utility assistance. We do receive requests for various other things as well, such as gas for vehicles, hotel rooms, ID's, household repairs, prescriptions, etc... The list could go on and on.

Each month a different small group assembles the food bags to be handed out. If you are interested in helping to assemble the food bags or help the assistance program in any way, please contact the church office.

Assistance days are Tuesdays and Thursdays 9am-1pm.

For financial assistance applicants need to bring:

·Photo ID

· Proof of Income

·Lease or current disconnect notice for electric, water or gas

·Financial Assistance is available once in a 12-month time frame. Meaning if you get assistance in January 2022, you would not eligible again until February 2023.

·Referrals to other agencies and programs are available For

Food assistance applicants just need an ID

Assistance is available to all Shelby County residents!

NOTES FROM KAY

"Then those 'sheep' are going to say, 'Master, what are you talking about? When did we ever see you hungry and feed you, thirsty and give you a drink? And when did we ever see you sick or in prison and come to you?' Then the King will say, 'I'm telling the solemn truth: Whenever you did one of these things to someone overlooked or ignored, that was me—you did it to me.'

--Matthew 25:37-40 (The Message)

Centenary will be reaching out to those in our community who might be or feel overlooked or ignored on Saturday, September 10, as we host a Health and Resources Fair. We will partner with Middletown Methodist Mobile Medical unit, UofL School of Dentistry Clinic (Shelbyville), Lions Club, Humana, and North Central District Health Department. Services offered will include glucose and blood pressure checks, vaccines, dental screening, and vision screening. In addition, several organizations will be present to share information about available resources in our area, including CUMC assistance program, Kentuckiana Works, help with Medicaid applications, pregnancy care, Shelby County schools' family resources centers, and more.

Centenary friends, how often do you wish you could make a genuine difference in the world? Here's your opportunity! Please plan to join us that day to welcome our guests and help them navigate this event. Both medical and non-medical volunteers are needed. Translators are also needed.

We will have a volunteer training Sunday, August 28 after worship, in which you will receive clear instruction for a role in this ministry. For non-medical volunteers, no special skills are required, just a heart to share the love of God with our neighbors. Your kindness, hospitality, and smile will make an authentic impact on another's life that day. Don't miss this opportunity to be blessed by being a blessing!

Thank you, CUMC Ministries Team, for your work in planning this event!

Redwoods' Members Bag Stuffers

The members of Centenary's small group, the Redwoods, devoted their ministry activity time in June to helping with the church's food assistance program. The more than 10 members attending filled over 100 grocery bags with canned vegetables, pasta products, cereal, and more for the sometimes nearly 200 individuals that Centenary assists in a month.

The meeting was opened by a devotional given by Trisha Hobbs. The members discussed future service opportunities in their home church and the community.

Emme Harrod will give the group's devotional message for August 8th, Barb Hansen has the message for September 12th. Redwoods will not meet in July. To learn more about Redwoods email Bonnie Burks Gray, 502-633-6941.

On May 25th, our Children welcomed summer vacation by participating in our annual Hello Summer Bash! Between bouncy houses and loads of cotton candy, these kiddos never slowed down. We had a lot of happy children running around our front lawn. We are thankful for Sweet As Can Bee for coming out and providing spun sugar for our guests and Herras Bouncy House for setting up and taking down the inflatable entertainment. Overall, we had a very successful event! Thank you for those that helped and were able to come out and enjoy this event.

SHOE DRIVE

We will be collecting shoes during the month of July for Waterstep. Every 5 pairs of shoes collected pays for one person to be able to access safe water.

Any shoes in any condition!
